WHERE IS NKASA LINYANTI

18°27'51.80"S 23°38'3.00"E

The camp is in the Nkasa Rupara National Park on Nkasa Island, located in the most southern part of the park, with the southern boundary being the Linyanti and Kwando Rivers. Nkasa Island is a large expanse of high ground that has direct access to the Linyanti main channel.

Sandwiched between the Linyanti and Kwando rivers, and butting onto Botswana to the south, Nkasa Rupara National Park is surrounded on two of its three sides by Botswana. It is located to the west of Chobe National Park and immediately to the north of Botswana's famous and well-respected safari lodges in the Linyanti and Kwando region, with the famed Okavango Delta just a further 75km further south.

WHEN IS A GOOD TIME TO GO

Nkasa Linyanti is open year-round with excellent game viewing throughout the seasons. Water levels are highest in April to October for exploring on mokoros and boats. At other times of year, water activities may be restricted.
